The Autoblow is somewhat new to the market but it has catapulted to the top of the adult sex toys market. It is an automated blowjob machine which literally sucks your cock. Well, the company who makes it says it sucks your cock, but our reviewers report that it feels more like a handjob, than a blowjob. As one of the only male toys that is hands free – it is in a unique category of its own in the marketplace. The toy has a few rows of spring-loaded beads attached to a small motor that jerk your cock up and down, bringing you to orgasm. A good value at under a hundred bucks.

Next is the Fleshlight, which is known as the king of men sex toys. This toy is a sleeve you put your penis inside of that feels just like the inside of a woman's vagina. Add some lube and you have an extremely realistic experience. The Fleshlight company makes these sex toys for men out of a new type of patented material, scientifically engineered to feel just like a real woman. Priced at about $50-$95 depending on what features you desire.

The last famous item in the category of mens sex toys is the Aneros toy. Aneros is company that makes toys to hit the male g spot, which is on the prostate gland. Made primarily for straight men, the toys offer a way to experience mind blowing super orgasms which most men never knew existed. The tools are small in size for maximum comfort, and relatively inexpensive at about $50-$80.
